Twelfth Night and Hamlet Presented

Mr. McEntee's Shakespearean Players Were Well Received

The Shakespeare Playhouse Players successfully produced 'Twelfth Night' and Hamlet in the college auditorium Wednesday afternoon and evening, June 22.

Duke Orsino displayed strong emotions in all of his scenes. The charming Miss Kearns ably handled the part of Viola. She kept well hidden her entire devotion to the Duke, while she was professing dutifully the Duke's love to Olivia. LeRoy O. Perti, as Sir Andrew, was decidedly humorous in his make up as well as in his actions. Malvolio was striking in his love scene, yellow-stockened, cross-gartered, and smiling.

Probably the most humorous incident in the play was the duel between Sir Andrew and Cesario. Sir Tobey and Fabian had hard work to control the muscular movements of the pair, especially those that control the knees.

The cast of characters for "Twelfth Night" were:

Orsino—Duke of Illyra—Ernest Rowan.

Sebastian, brother to Viola—Marc Loebell.

Antonio, sea captain, friend to Sebastian—Reynold Evans.

Cesario, gentleman attending on Duke—Elsie Herndon Kearns.

Sir Tobey Belch, Uncle to Olivia—P. J. Kelley.

Sir Andrew Auguecheek—Le Roy O. Perti.

Malvolio, steward to Olivia—Frank McEntee.

Fabian, servant to Olivia—Marc Loebell.

Olivia—Agnes Elliott Scott.

Viola—Elsie Herndon Kearns.

Maria, Olivia's woman—Miss Homer.

Mr. McEntee was very good in the part of Hamlet. He has appeared in the East a number of times in this part at the Plymouth Cort and Fulton Theatres. His work has been recognized by some of the best critics in the East.

Miss Kearns took the part of Ophelia. She was one of the favorites with the audience. Miss Kearns has played a number of leads with Walter Hampden and for several seasons was head of her own company in Shakespeares, Ibsen and Maeterlinck productions.

The part of Claudius was well portrayed by Mr. Rowan, who has played Shakespearean roles for several years. He has been the leading man

Utah University Asks for Aid in Teaching Vitalized Agriculture.

C. D. Steiner, professor of rural education in the University of Utah, has written to the Maryville State Teachers College concerning the teaching of vitalized agriculture. He desires detailed information of the course of study used in the summer session, when the third year of the rotation plan was taught.

The work of the third year in the rotation plan centers around living things and the following topics are included: The child; his exercise, clothing and food; birds; insects; rodents; cows; horses; mules; hogs; poultry. It is in this year's work that the school lunch becomes a part of study.

Nellie Halasey and Mary Watson, both students of the college, worked with Mr. Steiner last summer in a short course that the university of Utah gave in Vernal, Utah. There were over fifty teachers in the summer course in vitalized agriculture, and Miss Halasey and Miss Watson conducted the laboratory work in the summer session.

Musicians Wanted for the Orchestra.

College students who play any instrument which can be used in an orchestra should report for rehearsals on Monday and Thursday evenings. The orchestra is progressing nicely but needs a larger instrumentation. Surely among six hundred students there must be more than ten orchestra people.

with Walter Hampden at the Broadhurst Theatre in New York City.

Miss Agnes Elliott Scott played the part of Gertrude, Queen of Denmark. Miss Scott has been on the stage for several seasons. She succeeded Edith Wynne Matthison in the original Ben Greet Company and played leads with them for three years.

Mr. P. J. Kelly, who played the part of Polonius is a noted actor. He played seven years with Sothorn and Marlowe. Mr. Kelly was one of the original Irish players at the Abbey Theatre in Dublin. He has only recently been with the Shakespeare players.

Mr. McEntee is head of the company. For many years he was associated with Ben Greet as a partner and leading player. It was Mr. McEntee and his organization that brought out Walter Hampden in "Hamlet," a performance which created a sensation in New York two seasons ago. Mr. McEntee has been drawing to himself the people who are most interested in keeping the Bard of Avon alive

Sons Of Liberty Club Organized Membership Consists of Ex-Service Men

Ex-service men in the summer session have organized. A constitution was adopted and officers elected at a meeting held last Wednesday. Much discussion centered around the choice of a name for the young organization. It was finally decided that it should be known as "The Sons of Liberty," or "S. O. L." club. Plans for activities of various sorts are being formulated.

The officers elected were: Commander, Tracy Dale, Vice-commander, George Somerville, Adjutant, William Utter.

The following constitution has been adopted:

Prominent Educators Visit College Friday and Tomorrow

The college is favored by having former Commissioner of Education, P. P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education, Dr. J. J. Tigert, and Mr. J. L. McBrien, director of rural school extension, here today. It is a rare opportunity to hear these men speak. Miss Edith A. Lathrop, a specialist in rural education, will visit the college tomorrow and speak to the student body.

Iva Lape, who has been at her home in Laredo, Mo., on account of sickness, came back to Maryville, Sunday, June 19, and is able to resume her school work again.

Advanced Players Hold Tournament

Eleven are Entered in Girl's Singles Tournament This Week

We are glad to say that more interest is being taken in tennis this summer than was ever known at this school before. Both girls and boys are entering into the sport and are spending many happy hours together on the tennis courts. Not only are we glad that our players are competing between themselves but we are equally glad to know that we can compete with players from out of town.

The first girls' singles tennis tournament for the summer started at the college Monday, June 27. There are eleven girls entered and among them are present champions, former champions, runners-up and other good players.

The first round was played off at 6:30 o'clock Monday. The drawing has been done and the girls are matched as follows:

Lucille Bonham vs. Helen Dean.

Ora Mae Condon vs. Hester Cranor.

Ellen Sheley vs. Helen Miller.

Wave Hulet vs. Ruth Miller.

Norma Goodspeed vs. Ellen Mitchell.

Gladys Bookman received a bye and will play the winner of the Goodspeed-Mitchell match.

Hester Cranor won the girls singles tourney last summer. She ran up against stiff competition but won in the finish from Helen Miller.

Ruth Miller was champion of Maryville High School this spring and last and both times won the girls' singles at the Northwest Missouri tourney.

Wave Hulet won the girls' singles at the college this spring in two tournaments. She was also on the tennis team sent by the college to Kirksville to compete in the M. I. A. A. Tournament.

Ellen Mitchell was joint winner of the first mixed doubles tournament at the college early this spring.

Ora Mae Condon was joint winner in the final mixed doubles tournament this spring and was runner-up in the first summer tournament.

Helen Miller was joint winner of the summer mixed doubles tournament.

Lucille Bonham was runner-up in the second girls' singles tournament this spring.

Gladys Bookman, Norma Goodspeed, Ellen Sheley, and Helen Dean are all experienced players. From such an entry list this should be the best series of girls' matches ever played on the college courts. The feature match

Here and There Among the Colleges

In-the-State.

Quite a program of events has been planned for the students in the summer school of the Warrensburg State Teachers College. The big event of the summer will be the semi-centennial celebration, June 28.

Enrollment in Central Missouri State Teachers College has exceeded last summer's enrollment by several hundred. On June 13, the enrollment had reached 1409.

Chester Murray, associate professor in the romance language department in the University of Missouri, will resign this summer, after being connected with the university for thirteen years. He will become the head of the French department of the Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware, Ohio.

In 1919, while an officer in the R. O. T. C., he was given leave of absence to act as football scout for the Tigers.

Princeton University last year sustained a loss of $213,000 in educating some 1800 students, according to the financial report made public by John O. H. It cost $1,375,000 to run the university from September to June, a total of $171,865 per month, or $5,729 per day, with 1800 men enrolled as under-graduates. This is approximately $3.18 per man every twenty-four hours.

The deficit has been about $250,000 yearly during the last few years and has always been made up by individual subscriptions.

To do away with this habit the endowment fund for $14,000,000 was inaugurated a year ago.

Michael John Nolan, 42 years old, a student of the University of Washington at Seattle, and called by psychology experts the "intelligence test wizard of the United States," again has surpassed all competitors in a test at the university.

This time it was the "shotgun" test, and Nolan, besides scoring 252, seventeen points ahead of his nearest competitor, occupied only twenty-five minutes, five minutes less than the allotted time.

The subject of the debate was: "Resolved, That this house approves the American policy of non-intervention in European affairs."

Without an increase in its equipment and income, the University of Kentucky cannot go further, was the opinion expressed June 18 by Dr. Frank L. Japanese Boy Writes To College Student

Fred Kurtz has received a very interesting letter from a boy in Japan. He got in touch with him by answering an advertisement asking for an exchange of pictures. This advertisement was in the London paper, "Over Seas Daily Mail."

Fred soon received an answer to his letter and has been corresponding with the Japanese boy. The following is a copy of the last letter he received from him:

Fukuda, Okayama-Shigai, Japan,
May 17, 1921.

Dear Mr. Fred Kurtz:

I thank you for your kind letter which I had just now.

Pardon me for my picture cards, I sent you by last mail, being deteriorated and I suppose you were not satisfied with them. But there is no so pretty and nice cards as yours, about me nor shop. And also forgetting to tell you my age. I am seventeen-year old schoolboy. I entered the middle school in April in the year before last and have learned English only for two years and am looking forward to the time when I shall be able to read and speak it as well as you, English speaking people.

I am overwhelmed with gratitude for your praise my writing. I entered the Japan Correspondence School Penmanship and studied the instructions in the Newest Arm Writing for six months.

Now the blossoms were gone and the summer flaming with fresh verdure is coming and farmers are working in the wheat fields. The rice planting season will come soon. Then they plan with sedge-hasson their heads as they are singing.

When I shall have your letter for this letter, here we shall have been enjoying the summer vacation which we are looking forward longingly and I will go to a sea-bathing place, climb a mountain, make a trip to store my energy. Hearing the rings of a hanging bell and read something in a hammock in the shadows, having a row on the clear, blue water and dropping a line in a lake are the joyful methods spending the hot summer days.

Now I will tell you about the middle school. It has for the object to teach the common education to the boy who finished the whole course of the elementary school and higher primary school, and make them the promising men. The higher primary school admits the graduates of the common school. I entered the middle school upon finishing the course of the first year class of it. The curriculums of the middle school are morals, Japanese, Chinese, grammar, composition, writing, English, English grammar and composition, history, geography, law and economy, natural history, drawing, physics, chemistry, mathematics and gymnastics. The boy who studied for five years at middle school enters the high school and this time the rule was revised and the boy completed the regular course of the fourth year is able to go to the higher moral, higher commercial, and higher technological school and medical college and the like. Middle School teachers are mostly graduates of higher normal schools.

About the holidays, we have about forty holidays in the summer and the winter vacation for half a month and the same number of the holidays in the spring. Besides these, the fete-days except the three grand national fete days the New Year's Day, the anniversary of the Assension of the Emperor Jimmu and the Imperial Birthday. On these days, there are the ceremony at school.

I am always so longed to go to your country, but I can't do so at present. I will go when I was well versed in English.

May I hope to hear from you soon again.

Yours sincerely,
Atsushi Kawai.

Exercise Is Important For Business Women

How many girls, who are working to attain success in the business world, take time to do daily exercises fitted to their individual needs?

Under the direction of Dr. Anna L. Brown, Director of the Bureau of Social Education of the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association, a series of exercises for girls of various occupations has been thought out. Fifteen minutes a day is the only investment necessary and with these exercises fitted to your needs, they will mean health.

"Health is your biggest job," says Dr. Brown. "You need it. Your job demands it, and you are the only one who can get it for yourself."

With most girls a vast amount of effort is put into technical training as an essential foundation of success but they often fail to see to what extent success is dependent upon "feeling fit."

Seniors Have First Summer Picnic.

Fifteen members of the senior class with their social sponsor, Miss MacLeod, enjoyed a picnic at Elm Grove the evening of June 17. Ira Fantz and Charles Wells furnished automobiles to convey the class to the picnic grounds.

The evening was spent in enjoying the usual good "eats" of a picnic, and playing various games. The committee in general charge was Sylvia Ratliff, Harvey Watson, and William Utter.

Faye Luallin of Clinton, Mo., a former S. T. C. student, was seriously injured last week in an automobile accident. Miss Luallin, her younger sister, her father and mother were motoring from Clinton to Kansas City when a train struck their car, killing the younger sister and injuring the rest of the occupants. Miss Luallin was removed to her home at Clinton. Her condition is regarded as most serious.

Important Work In Agriculture Being Done At College.

A representative of the department of plant pathology of the United States department of agriculture visited the college last week. He was looking for black rust in wheat. Considerable rust was found in the wheat just south of Maryville.

Part of the life cycle of black rust fungus is spent on the common barberry plant. Several infested plants were found around the post office, and one infested plant on the campus. Most of the barberry plants on the school grounds are of the Japanese variety. Only the common variety of barberry need be destroyed to prevent the spread of black rust.

Mr. King, a graduate student of the University of Missouri was here last week to oversee the cutting of the wheat on the university plots on the school farm. A good yield of wheat is expected but the straw is short.

Most of the corn on the school farm has been planted after soy beans and shows greater growth than where corn has been followed by corn.

The agriculture classes are at present judging seed corn. The germinating power of the ear is being considered as well as the points of the regular score card.

Appeal to the Great Spirit Has Arrived and Been Placed in the Library.

"The Appeal to the Great Spirit" presented to the College by this year's graduating class arrived last week and has been placed in the library. The statue makes a fitting companion - piece to, "The Scout" which was given by the graduating class of 1919. These statues are both the work of an American sculptor, Cyrus E. Dallin. He is particularly good in his portrayal of Indian life and these two statues afford one an excellent chance to study contrast in art. Every line of "The Scout" bespeaks alertness and taut nerves; every line of "The Appeal" shows repose and faith.

The students here are fortunate in that they can have and enjoy these statues. There are others placed about the building which typify various periods of ancient art. It would be worth one's time to learn the history of each work of art we own and to study it carefully.

Many of the 1921 graduates already have their positions for the coming year. Those who have made announcements of their work are as follows:

Susie Crockett will teach in the high school at Worth, Mo.

Bernice Rutledge will teach English at Olathe, Colo.

Edna Turner and Alma Lucas will both teach in the Maryville High School. Edna teaches mathematics and Alma teaches English.

Marie Price will have charge of the primary at Tarkio, Mo.

Lela Ulmer will teach Latin at Elmo Mo.

Lena Murry has been re-elected to teach at Trenton, Mo.

Nellie Halasey has accepted a position to teach vitalized agriculture in the consolidated schools of the Huntington Independent District, near Perytown, Texas, at a salary of $185.00 per month.

Mr. Miller lectured at the M. E. Church last Sunday morning and evening. The Reverend Dr. Curl is now taking his vacation. After this the Reverend Mr. Allison will preach for the Methodist and Presbyterian congregations, until the pastor of the First Methodist church returns.

Mr. Miller's lecture Sunday morning was the "Bullwark of our Religion." Sunday evening he talked on "Religious Literature." He referred to "Ben Hur" often and also gave several quotations from "Ben Hur."

Vertura Faubion will teach Latin and English at Hopkins, Missouri next year.

Lena Copeland of King City will teach the fifth and sixth grades at Hopkins.

Mrs. Bonnie Gannon has returned to school after a weeks absence because of sickness.

Departmental Notes.

Biology.

The tarantula which was found last week in a bunch of bananas has been added to the Biology department as another item of great interest.

The different groups of the Biology department are very busy identifying birds, their nests, varieties of pine trees, studying insect architecture and collecting flower and weed specimens.

Agriculture.

The animal husbandry class inspected the Poland-China hogs at the Robinson farm last week.

Demonstration School Closes.

The demonstration school of the S. T. C., closed Friday, June 24. Over one-hundred children have been enrolled in this school during the year. The school has been in session since the opening of the college last fall. The demonstration school is carried on as the laboratory side of the classes in education. However, many of the instructors outside of the education classes have demonstrated by their work with the various children various principles in their line of work.

The demonstration school term extended into the summer session because of the demand of the college students for such work. During the summer neither the kindergarten nor the junior high school has been in session since there are no public kindergartens and few junior high schools in the district. About seventy-five college students have observed the work of the lower grades, and nearly as many students have observed the work of the upper grades.

On the morning of June 24, grades one and two gave an Indian program in the kindergarten. The stories which furnished the background for the program were Hiawatha, and Red Feather. The second grade presented parts from Hiawatha. The first grade gave two scenes from Red Feather; the first scene showed the home life of the Indians, the second scene the buffalo hunt. The children made a wigwam, and they constructed other articles of camp life. The children dressed in Indian costumes.

The third and fourth grades gave a pageant centered around the principal characters in Greek Mythology.

The first episode presented the home of the gods on Mt. Olympus. The second episode was Man's home on earth when fire is first brought to man. The principal characters were Mercury, Zeus, Cupid, Minerva, Neptune, Jupiter, Apollo, Ceres, and Pluto.

Then there were the sea nymphs, and the fire fairies.

The Stroller.

Miss Degan has written that while in Butte, Montana recently, she discovered the Stroller's address. She says it is 31 West Broadway, but that is not true. As usual, bad relatives will be known and the Stroller confesses that it is his brother, a maker of cigars.

There must be a dark secret in Earl Duncan's life which Mr. Hawkins has discovered for he gives Mr. Hawkins chewing gum every time Mr. Hawkins holds out his hand to him.

The Stroller wishes to advise Miss Winn, Miss Dow and Dr. Keller to have a jeweler make them some pretty little pins with the word faculty on them in order to relieve students from the embarrassment of talking to them as fellow students only to find out that they are talking to august faculty members. This situation has arisen several times here of late.

At assembly Tuesday morning President Richardson announced that it would not cost the students a cent to attend the Shakespearean plays. Bill Mapel immediately went to the platform to inquire if a fellow could take his girl free. As we all know, Bill is always needing money. Now he has a new way of earning spending money. He made a date with a college girl and then sold it to a Maryville man; the Stroller wonders if the lady was consulted.

Miss Anthony says Jack Bland is her type of man. Isn't that an interesting discovery to make?

The Burlington comes and goes, the Wabash crawls along, both are occasionally late, but the Clearmont Special is supposed to go on forever.

Frances Pugh finds the floor in front of the supply store bewitched. She is unable to control her feet at that place.

Mr. Wells was asked if he had any plans for his classes. He replied, "Yes, I am planning to have them work a little more." Groans from the beginning Spanish pupils.

One of Mr. Colbert's students in college algebra class said, "yes 'um" to him. When she started to apologize he said, "Oh that is all right—majority rules."

It may be permissible for Bill Richards to tap some young ladies on the head with his book but he should be sure after this that he knows who she is.

Miss MacLeod carried the Stroller out to the senior picnic last week in her paper bag. And my, the startling things that did happen. Bernice Rutledge and Charles Wells were fussing and Bernice said, "Let's kiss and make up." The Stroller does not know whether they did or not as she closed her eyes.

Julia Lowry would be a great success as an artist for she has shown real interest in one of the old Masters.

Those who think that the moonlight holds no charms, should try a plunge in the good old river, 102, some beautiful evening. Perhaps if you are careful in the selection of a good hole, there may not be a fisherman lurking in the bushes beside the water.

But the Stroller wants every one to remember that a mile is as good as an inch—two minutes after ten-thirty is as bad as one hour.

TWELFTH NIGHT AND HAMLET PRESENTED

on Broadway as well as in the educational centers of the country.

No elaborate scenery was used by this company and the simple setting was quite effective. It is Mr. McEntee's idea to give the plays in simple settings as they were done originally, and he has been very successful in working out this idea.

S. T. C. students fully appreciate these two performances and hope that they may again see the Shakespearean Playhouse Players.

will probably be between Ruth Miller and Wave Hulet. From all appearances the former has a slight advantage. There is no doubt that the winner of this match will have a good chance to win the tournament.

The finals of the beginners doubles tournament was played off Thursday between Georgia Rigney and Violet Brock against Faye Townsend and Bernice Rutledge.

In the semi-finals Brock and Rigney defeated Ratliff and Hahn, 6-1, 6-0 and Rutledge and Townsend won from Ratliff and Crowson, 6-3, 6-3.

All of the girls in this tournament are just learning the game. There is no one of them who has ever played before this summer. Miss MacLeod has charge of the tournament and she is bringing the beginners up to form in short order.

Sunday evening, June 19, the Baptist College students gave a very good program at the Baptist Young People's service. The subject was "What can the study of the Bible do for me?" The leader, Robert Birbeck, gave an outline of the Bible and its purpose in the world. In the talks given by other students they brought out the idea that there was always a scripture reference to help us overcome every temptation. We need to be better acquainted with the Bible in order to overcome temptations. Other thots were, "What can help the Christian most in time of temptation?" Do we study the Bible daily?" "How much of the scripture we would know at middle age if we learned one verse each day?" and "What the Bible means to the world and civilization?" Many other good thots were given but these especially we need think about.

Others who were on the program were: Virgil Adkisson, Mrs. Alfred Estes, Mrs. J. O. Stagner, Ellen King, and Ruth Linville.

Y. W. C. A.

Following the Y. W. C. A. membership campaign the program for June 22 was the Recognition Service. Opal Kent opened the program by singing two selections. The Y. W. C. A. president, Alice Perry, gave an introductory talk relating the story of the crusader who carried the candle home from the Holy Lands to light the candles at home. Then all the girls who had been given small candles marched to the platform and lighted these small candles from the one large candle. The Y. W. C.
